

COMMUNITY UNITED METHODIST CHURCH
in Half Moon Bay, California

The county's earliest place of public worship under the American regime was St. Denis' Catholic chapel. The oldest Protestant church (shown here) is the Community United Methodist Church in Half Moon Bay, built in 1872 and still in active use. Its left wing, which was added later, was once the Half Moon Bay station on the Ocean Shore Railroad. (San Mateo County Historical Association)
